Speaker Bio

Pallavi Vedantam, PhD

Dr. Vedantam is an alumnus of Sri Sathya Sai Institute of Higher Learning, Anantapur, AP, India. She has been in Bhagavan's fold for over 30 years as a SSE student, YA, Seva dal and as a student at SSSIHL. Bhagavan blessed her to be part of the first Nadaswaram (traditional Indian wind instrument) women's band from Anantapur campus as a student. She has been a speaker at various Sai Organization events in the United States. She currently conducts research in Immuno-oncology at the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, NY after pursuing her Postdoctoral research at the University of Connecticut Health Center as an Immunologist.

Prior to her current assignment, Dr. Vedantam was a Postdoctoral Fellow at the Harvard School of Public Health. Her research at Harvard focused on inactivation of microorganisms by Engineered Water Nanostructures. She received her doctoral degree in Microbiology from Clemson University. She studied Bionanomaterials and their applications during her PhD. She has a BS degree in Microbiology from University of Madras, India, and a B.Ed. degree and MS in Food Sciences and Human Nutrition from Sri Sathya Sai University, India.
